The City

Huddled snugly along US 301, Statesboro, Georgia, "the tourist city", thrives on the transients. These passers-through are not only vacationers, but college students who inhabit this otherwise quiet Southern town for a time and then move on.

North, South, East and West converge into the apex of activity as Main Street becomes the focal point of interest and memories for the old timers. The new Statesboro is characterized by the six-lane highway transversing the city and the modern enclosed shopping mall. The burgeoning apartment complexes which are rapidly encircling the college provide a direct contrast to the white-columned homes of Southern aristocracy. The newer subdivisions exhibit all of the symptoms of a growing suburbia. Only a stone's throw away are the reminders of a depression era; bleach-boarded homes with sagging front porches and weed-tangled wells.

Finally discovered by the thriving pizza peddlers and hamburger havens, Statesboro has accumulated, in a short time enough of these establishments to satisfy at least one requirement for GSC's "forthcoming" university status. If a burger-fry-and-shake doesn't chase away the Statesboro blues, the frustrated student can get away from it all as Bullock County's lakes and farmlands offer a contrast to the pressures of town and campus life.

The College

"Down among the murmuring pine trees Where old nature smiles" — the alma mater bespeaks of a Georgia Southern of days gone by. Some of the once-murmuring pines may now be whimpering as many of their number are cut down for the much-needed roads and buildings on the ever-expanding GSC campus. A pass through the main gates or a spin around Sweetheart Circle, however, assures the fearful alumnus that all beauty has not been sacrificed in the name of progress.

Most people are attracted by the size of Georgia Southern. It seems small enough to make the newcomer feel a part of it, but sufficiently large to keep the freshman confused the first week or so.

One never has much trouble telling the buildings apart. Each new structure seems to have its own distinctive architecture and personality. The "escapes" such as Sweetheart Circle and the lake greatly enhance livability.

The sixty-eight year-old institution which is now Georgia Southern College went through many growing pains to attain its present status as a major Georgia college. A flip through a few old copies of the "Eagle Eye" shows the 73-74 student just how far GSC has come in the area of rules and regulations. The college has certainly come a long way acadmically. With an eye pointed toward university status, the administration has laid the groundwork for an expanding curriculum to keep pace with the growing needs of students.

The closing words of the school song express future hopes: "From the blue and broad Atlantic, Balmy breezes blow, Wafting far GSC's spirit, May she ever grow."

The People

No matter how many lofty buildings, well-stocked libraries, PhD's or space-age facilities an institution has, it is the people that make a college. From the friendly Williams Center maintenance man to the President Emeritus, the Georgia Southern non-student population is a study of people. Each has a unique function at GSC and plays a large part in the more permanent personality of the college. By the same token, each student at Southern is uniquely different. Although the preponderance of students come from the state of Georgia, enough people enroll from other states in this country and from abroad to make a varied student population. There is no "Georgia Southern look"; any mode of dress fits in. The same holds true for the academic atmosphere for the students run the gamut from the loafer to the highly motivated intellectual. As in any college, there are those who simply occupy space for four years, moving with unreasoned apathy through the motions of getting a degree. Then there are the followers who need to be sparked with enthusiasm for taking part in all facets of campus life. Finally there is always a nucleus of "the involved" — the champions of causes, the contributors, the "doers". The college environment with its varied personalities is a part of the total learning process, for learning about people is one of the most valuable experiences to be gained.

The Year

With the energy shortage putting crimp in weekend excursions, some students found their bags packed but their gas tanks empty. The search was on for campus activities to fill the gaps. The CUB responded to the call by providing some much-sought-after flicks and other diversions. The novelty of intervisitation so long awaited by many sutdents seemed to have arrived at an opportune time. At Christmas, it was back to the good old days with hand-held tapers replacing the gleam of the traditional dazzling tree at Williams Center.

The winter quarter slump was alleviated by the curiosity which surrounded the appearance of "JOSH" and by Homecoming revelry. February arrived with many eagerly anticipating a repeat performance of last year's blizzard. Instead, spring came early with azaleas and dogwoods blooming with little heart. Shorts and halters appeared sooner than usual on campus and it was easy to see that the "sap was rising" — so much so that some dispensed with clothing altogether when the streaking fad hit GSC. The crowds that followed with reckless abandon the lewd nudies equalled or surpassed the numbers gather at Bob Hope's GSC appearance.

Spring break broke the streaking spell and students returned to school not fully rejuvenated because of the brevity of the glorified weekend. Sunbathing, bicycling and outdoor activities were the order of the quarter. Greek Week and the Honors Day Convocation were notable traditions highlighting spring quarter. To some, the term was never-ending, to others it was all too short, as mixed emotions accompanied the approach of the year's end and final graduation ceremonies.

Fall Is For Fun

With the turn of the leaves, students turned to the usual thrills of October. Between cotton candy and monsters of Halloween it was a very exciting month. Students crowded the fair grounds with childish delight, taking advantage of rides, winning stuffed animals, and eating candied apples. The community thronged to brave the perils of a terrifying tour through the Haunted House, tangling with a variety of ghosts and witches. Halloween horror was at its height — compliments of the goblins in the Recreation Department at G.S.C.

ΣX's Derby Day Expanded

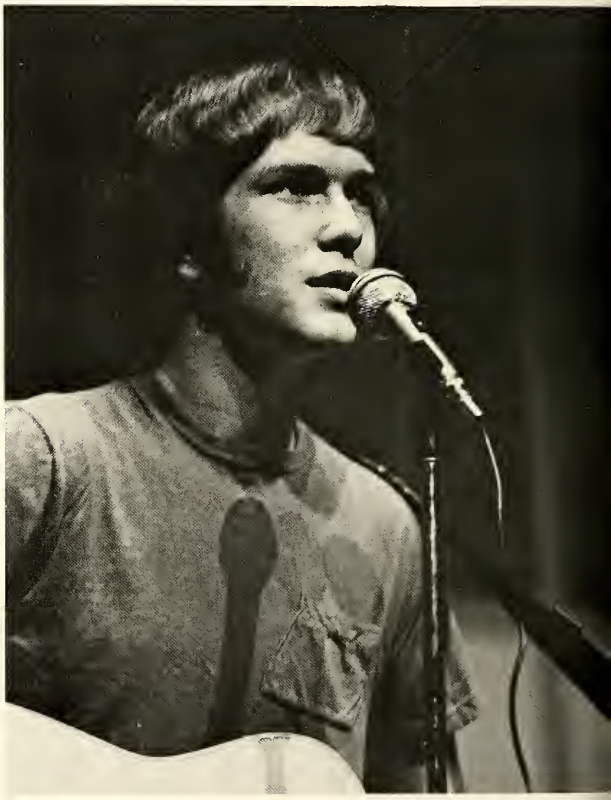
Several changes in Sigma Chi's Derby Day came about in 1973. The traditional event was held fall quarter rather than spring quarter, and the events filled an entire week. During the early part of the week, the fraternity's Dick Greene Memorial Heart Fund and Wallace Village project were promoted. On Friday, sororities participated in the frantic search for derbies. Derby Day games, along with the crowning of Miss Derby Day, Lynn Spires, and Miss Derby Debut, LeeLee King, took place on Saturday.

Masquers Go Medieval

The fall quarter production of "Everyman" proved the versatility and creativity of Georgia Southern's theatre artists. A medieval morality play, "Everyman" dealt with a man's search for salvation. The original play limited itself to the death rather than the entire life of Everyman. However, Director Bob West and the Masquers expanded the play to encompass many stages of Everyman's life from birth to death. Using every ounce of imagination, the cast employed projections, rock music, pantomimes, dances, lights, and costumes to give a unique silent interpretation. During the second part of the play, the characters were elements in life such as strength, beauty, knowledge, and good deeds which promised salvation to Everyman. Only good deeds fulfilled her promise.

Music From A to ZZ

GSC students were provided with a wide variety of music fall quarter. ZZ Top performed before an audience of 2,500 in Hanner Fieldhouse and was brought back for three encores by the captivated audience. Depth was added to the fall performances with soul by Mel and Tim, progressive jazz and rock by the Mike Green Band, along with country and blues by Breakfast Special. Norman DelloJoio, one of American's foremost composers and conductors, also visited the GSC campus. He was a guest lecturer, and the conductor of the College Community Orchestra and Chorus at an evening recital in the Foy Auditorium.



Thanksgiving Concert

Just prior to Thanksgiving holidays a religious concert was held in Foy auditorium. Billed as a "Thanksliving Concert" and sponsored by the Religious Activities Committee, the concert integrated the musical talents of many GSC students. The performers were well received by an enthusiastic audience. Campus organizations which participated were Campus Crusade for Christ, Baptist Student Union, and Wesley Foundation. The concert was a fitting prelude for the holiday season.

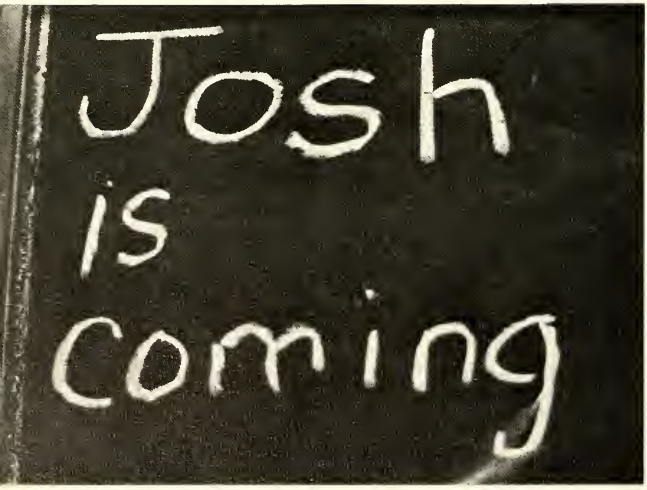
Wide Range of Interests Spark Student Activities

During winter quarter 1974, many groups sponsored events of interest to GSC students. In addition to the major CLEC presentation of the Roumanian Folk Ballet, a variety of other intellectually stimulating and/or entertaining activities were offered for an evening's diversion throughout the quarter. These events ranged from the newly-formed Women's Accent Group's lectures to the combined Winburn and Veazy House Councils' reverse beauty pageant to the Music Department's continually excellent presentations and recitals.



Josh

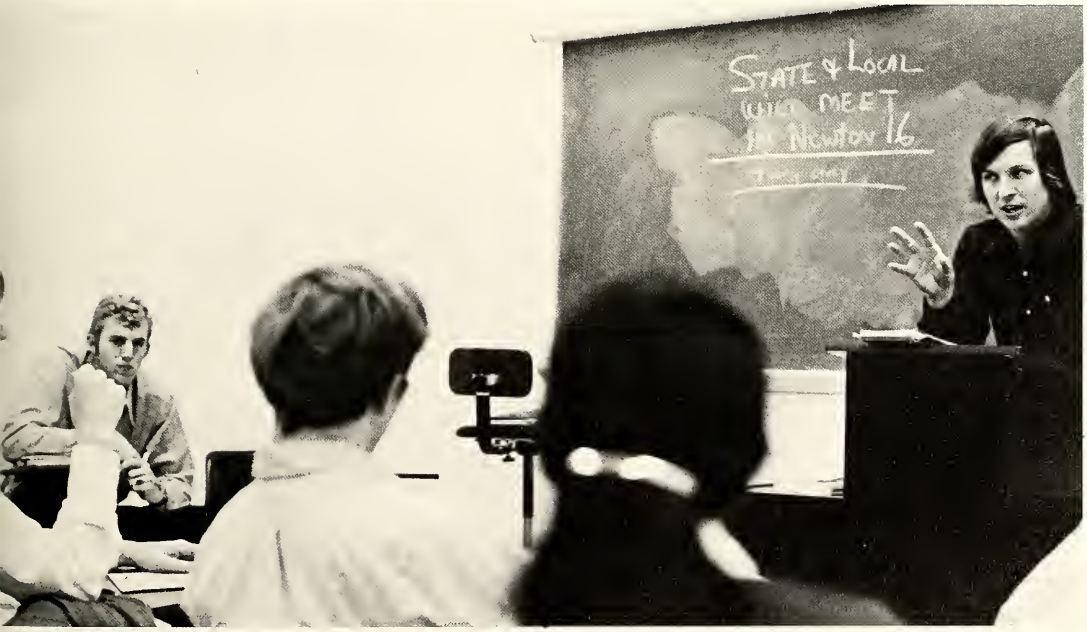
Josh Came

Three small words plagued the G.S.C. community for the greater part of fall quarter: "Josh is coming." The announcement was posted on bulletin boards, written on blackboards and worn on buttons by students who already knew the secret. Then, on January 16 and 17, Josh came.

Josh McDowell, international traveling speaker for Campus Crusade for Christ, has spoken on the campuses of more than 450 colleges and universities. During his two-day visit at Georgia Southern, Josh spent much time in various classrooms lecturing and talking with students. Interest and curiosity ran high with those who filled McCroan Auditorium Wednesday, January 16 to hear him lecture on "Resurrection: Hoax or History." An even greater number turned out Thursday night when the topic was "Maximum Sex." The Georgia Southern community will not soon forget Josh's coming.



Winter Coffeehouses Add To Student Activities

Coffeehouses provided a relaxing get-together for students who were ready to take a break from the books. They manifested much of the talent found on campus and added their own special memories of life at Georgia Southern during winter quarter.

Energy: Crisis

One of the dominant topics of discussion all over the country and even at G.S.C. was the energy crisis. Whether the crisis was fact or fiction, it was felt by everyone. Unavailability of gasoline and higher prices left gas tanks, pockets — and therefore suitcases — empty. Students at least thought twice about going anywhere at all unless it was on a bicycle. Shortages also affected paper and other "luxuries" that are usually taken for granted. Daylight-savings time in January enabled students to become amateur star-gazers as they groped their way to 8:00 classes in the dark. In one way or another each person was made aware that something was going on, something that was called an energy crisis.

Parade Ignites Homecoming Celebration

With "Looking Back-Moving Forward" as the 1974 Homecoming theme, students used great creativity to make this year's parade a memorable one. Multi-colored floats, gaily decorated cars, crazy bathtubs, and humorous clowns, (but no bands) travelled a new parade route which restored Sweetheart Circle its place of prominence among campus centers of activity.

Come Saturday Morning

While many GSC students were experiencing the after-effects of their Friday-night revelry, preparations were being made Saturday morning for further Homecoming activities. The GSC Stage Band was rehearsing with Bob Hope, and a picnic for students was in the making. The lakeside repast was followed by a few minutes for relaxation — then on to the game!

Students and alumni had some of the best of both worlds in entertainment during Homecoming: Ike and Tina Turner and Bob Hope. On Friday night Ike and Tina brought the audience to its feet with their marvelously "gutsy" sound. Their repertoire included both old and new hits including "Proud Mary" and "Nutbush City Limits."

Bob Hope's second performance at GSC was another smashing success. Along with the musical talent provided by selected GSC students, Hope entertained an audience which packed the fieldhouse: a fitting close for a fun-filled weekend.

Crowning of the Queen And an Eagle Victory

Homecoming Spirit at Georgia Southern, undaunted by the unusual time of day at which the all-important game was held, reached unheard-of heights as the Eagles trounced the Mercer Bears to claim the number one basketball spot in Georgia.

Halftime events were climaxed by the crowning of Miss Joni Banks, sponsored by the Delta Zeta Sorority, as Homecoming Queen.

Miss G.S.C. 1974

The 27th annual Miss G.S.C. pageant was held on March 9, 1974, the result of weeks of preparation. Fifteen of G.S.C.'s own competed for the title, displaying a variety of personality, talent, and beauty. Marilyn Greene, sponsored by Phi Mu Sorority, was chosen as the 1974 Miss Georgia Southern College. To complete the Miss G.S.C. court, Debra Peavy and Donna Orford were chosen as first and second runners-up. The honor of Miss Congeniality was bestowed on Wendy Wingfield by her fellow contestants. To end the pageant in the true traditional fashion, Rosemary Wells, Miss G.S.C. 1973, relinquished her crown to the new Miss G.S.C.

"The Heath Cobblers:" Another Masquers Success

"The Heath Cobblers," a Finnish comedy by Aleksi Kivi was presented to the G.S.C. community February 20-23. The Masquers came through weeks of preparation with another success. The play which portrayed Finnish country life was translated into English and directed by G.S.C.'s Dr. Richard Johnson. This was the second time the play had been performed in English in America.

Kivi's optimism shines throughout "The Heath Cobblers." The plot involves a greedy family which goes to great lengths to cheat a poor girl out of money that is rightfully hers. The hilarious escapades of the heath cobbler's sons catch up with them and full recompense must be made. Out of goodness, the girl shares the money, an act which warms and changes the hearts of the greedy family. The carefully selected cast made a vivid presentation. The characters they portrayed lived happily ever after.

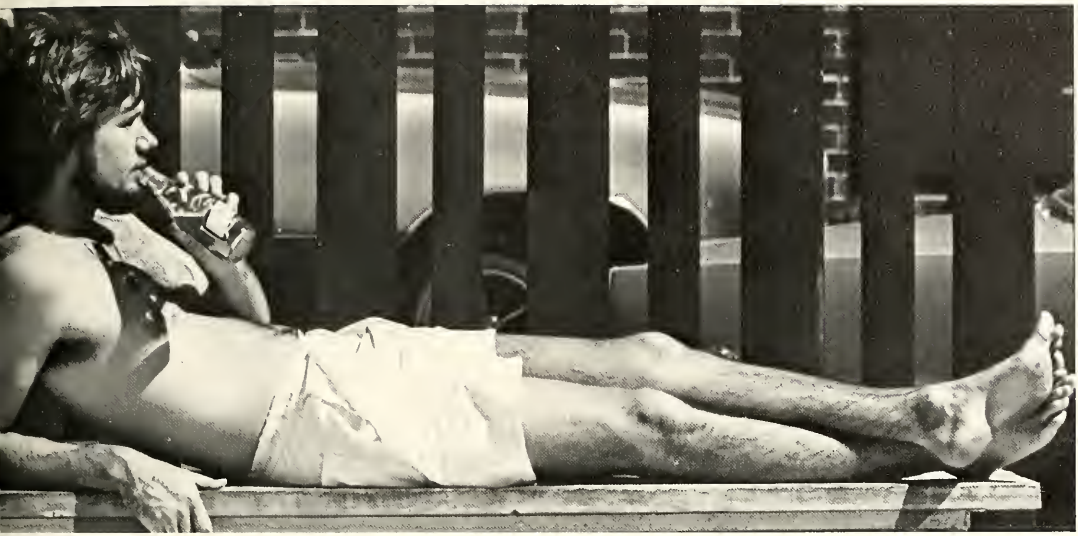
Out of the Shadows, Into the Sun



Spring: the quarter five-thousand GSC students stampeded Hanner Gym for early classes and light loads, with sunshine and water on their minds. Books often haunted the would-be scholar, but the sun lured him out of the shadowy confines of the classroom, library, and dormitory.

Students Enjoy Baseball in the Sun

With the advent of spring also came sunny afternoons spent at the baseball field watching the Eagles work their way through a 45-12 season. GSC students peeled off clothes and shoes, donned halters and sunglasses, and at the opening game began working on suntans. Spending time with friends while cheering the Eagles to victory was an integral part of spring quarter at GSC.

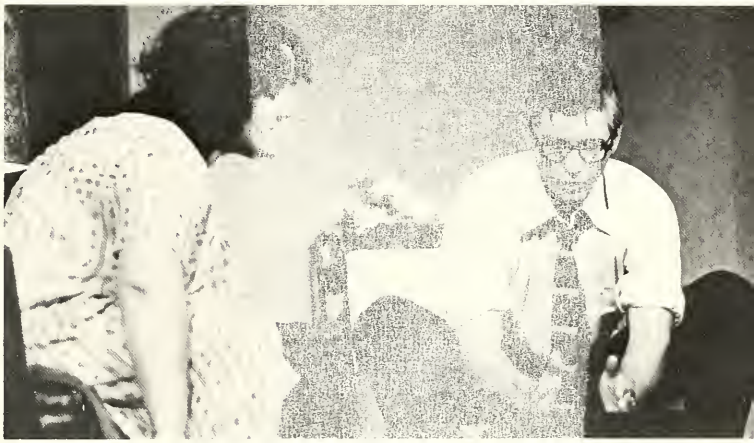
The spring production of "Come Back Little Sheba" reflected again the great ingenuity of the Masquers.

William Inge's play came to life in the portrayal of Doc, his wife Lola, and their boarder, Marie. Doc, a rehabilitated alcoholic, is driven back to drinking upon the realization that his life is one of unhappiness and inadequacy. The drama, a combination of pathos and humor, ends with Doc and Lola resolving to begin life anew.

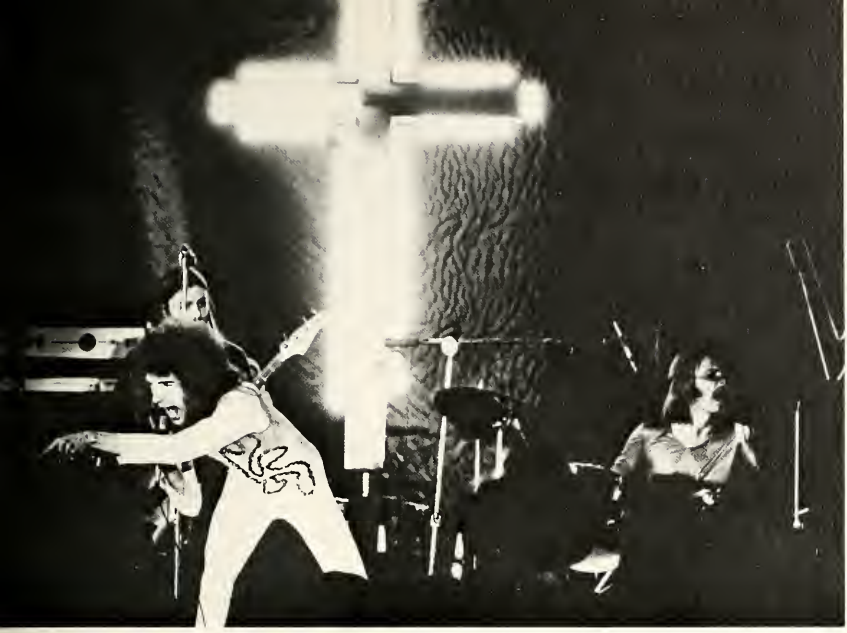
Despite the torrid heat of McCroan auditorium the audiences were entertained with superb performances.

Masquers' Spring Production: "Come Back Little Sheba"



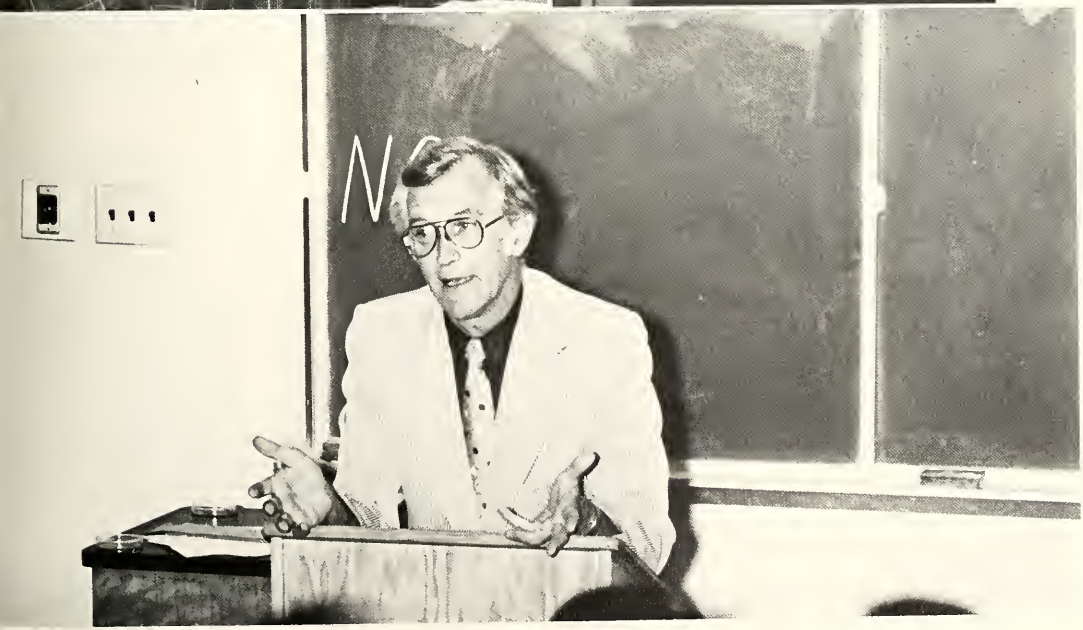
Spring Concerts

The musical expertise of Jim Stafford and Roy Buchanan was enjoyed by an unusually large GSC audience Spring quarter. Stafford's "I Don't Like Spiders and Snakes" and Roy Buchanan's rock songs of the 60's and 70's provided a diversified evening of entertainment. Further variety was given in the two minor concerts, Wet Willie-White Witch and Flood.



A Dash of Culture

Interspersed the studying and socializing of Spring Quarter were many activities of cultural value. Events such as debates, the GSC Chorus Concert, music recitals, and the opening of the puppetry theatre entwined entertainment and enrichment. Guest lecturers also supplemented classroom learning with contributions from their professional experience. Dr. William G. Pollard, at the First Annual Herty Lecture sponsored by the Chemistry Department, was one such speaker.



Honors Day '74

Dr. David A. Ruffin, 1973 Professor of the Year, gained further distinction by being the first GSC faculty member to address an Honors Day Assembly. The 1974 convocation at which he spoke was the occasion for the presentation of approximately 400 awards. These included Excellent Scholarship Awards, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, Constructive Leadership-Unself-is Service Awards and a number of special awards. The Alumni Association's Scholastic Award was given to Glenda Sue Cannon. Dr. William Word was chosen by the GSC student body as the 1974 Professor of the Year.

Golf Tournament Added To Greek Week Activities

The tradition of GSC's Greek organizations was executed in classical form beginning on Tuesday, April 23. The week of events included the collection of funds for the American Cancer Society, a golf tournament, a swim meet, a "Greek Sing," and a gamut of "games." During the week the Greek Man and Woman of the Year were named; Carey Roundtree (ΣΧ) and Beth Sutton (ΛΔΠ) received the awards. Culminating the week of events was a dance at The Ball at which ΚΣ and ΖΤΑ took the Greek Week honors.

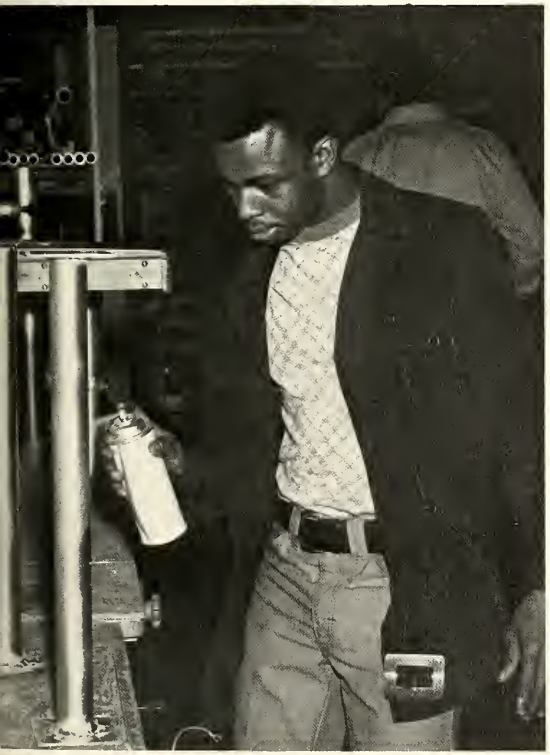
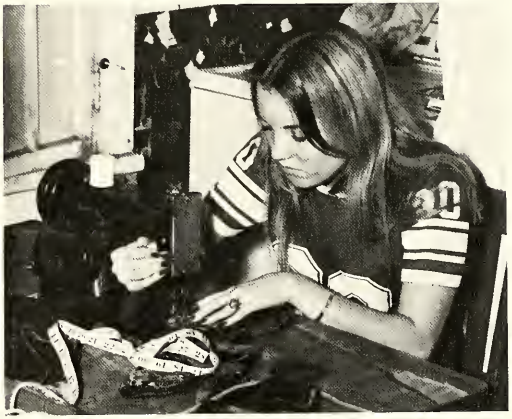
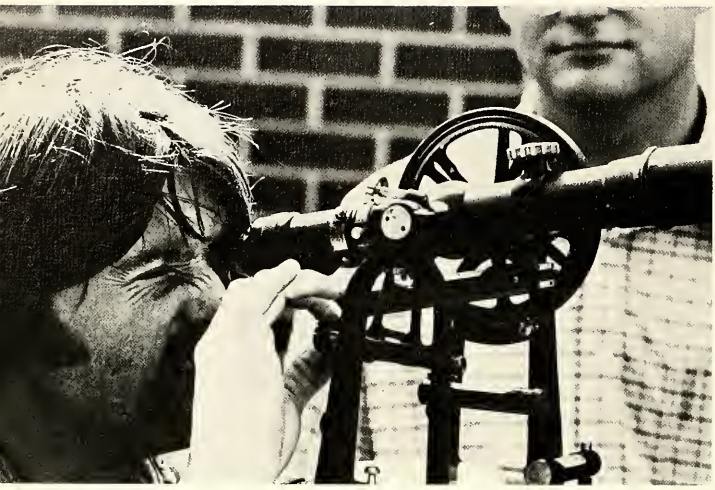
Preparation For A Play

At least five weeks prior to the opening night of a Masquer's production an average of 32 students begin contributing the 4,000 man-hours that will eventually go into the preparation of that play. Costumes, wigs, sets, make-up, and lighting do not come in a package deal when the royalty is paid. Countless details of this sort must be attended to before curtain time. The magnitude of these students' contribution to the production is often not realized by those who attend the superior plays at GSC.







Labs Unlimited

LABS . . . those inescapable horrors! Not only does a lab change a fifteen-hour schedule into a forty-hour week, but it is also the instigator of schedule conflicts even before classes begin.

Lab equipment is as diversified as the courses: microscopes, chisels, measuring cups, bunsen burners, crucibles, and plumb lines only begin the inventories. All are instruments over which countless hours are spent in those cherished marathon lab sessions.

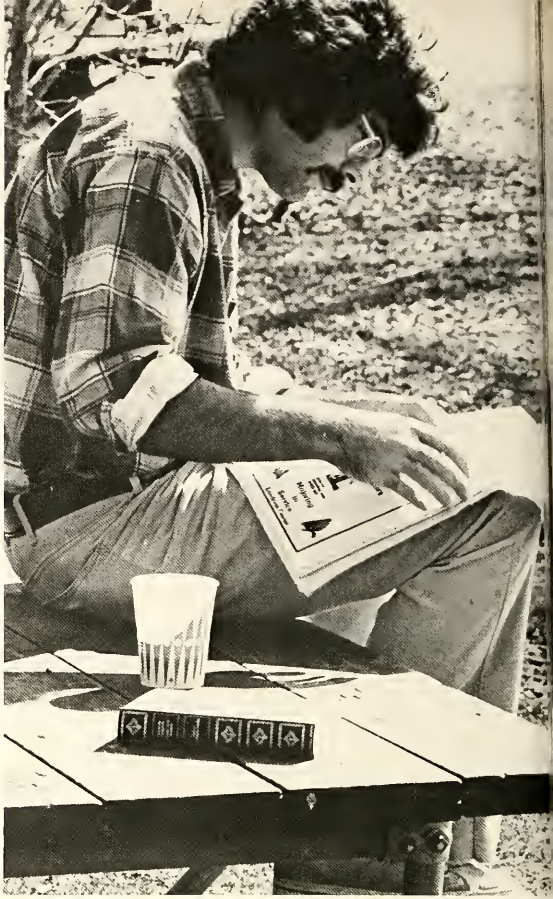
Two Wheels Are Better Than Four

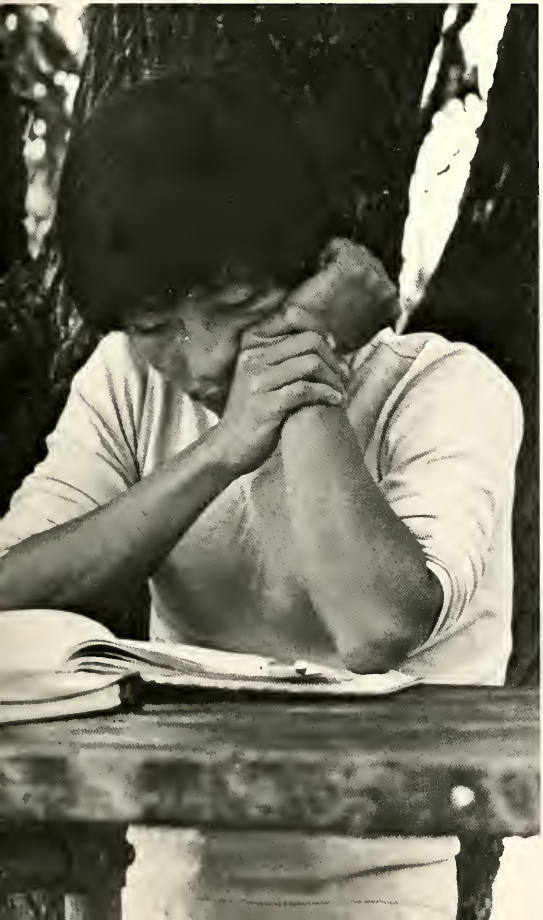
While walking to class on a typical day at Southern, one is likely to be passed by a "streak of lightning." No, it is not a part of Statesboro's regular monsoon season, but it is a student racing to class on a bicycle. One is considered fortunate if he possesses a two-wheeled vehicle instead of a four-wheeled one. A student can chain his bike to a rack or secure it to the nearest tree without even worrying about a "friendly note" from Campus Security.

Bikes have also found popularity in providing a break from the studying routine. Riding around campus or hitting the tourist spots of the city, cyclists have proven that cycling is a No. 1 sport gaining momentum at GSC.



A Few Unhurried Moments By The Lake

GSC's little body of water that mirrors the masses of students as they hurry on their way to classes was a favorite spot for many students. The lake provided a quiet place to catch up with one's thoughts, to finish last-minute homework between classes or to just absorb the out-of-doors. Alone or with someone special, students spent much leisure time around the pond. When the weather was pretty, the lakeside became a place to study, with the ducks quacking out additional insights or distractions.



Where Were You In '74?

In years to come students will reflect on the past year: "Do you remember eating hot fudge cake at Shoney's . . . rolling a friend's room . . . having water battles and shaving cream fights in the dorm . . . spying for UFO's . . . doing the shag . . . playing football . . . jivin' . . . or streaking . . ."

Reminiscing became a favorite pastime when American Graffiti hit the scene. In an age when cruisin' down Main Street and eating at Mel's Drive-In were popular, most GSC students were eight-year-olds playing cowboy and Indian or keeping house with Barbie and Ken. But this did not diminish the popularity of the movie for Georgia Southern students; they were busy making their own "American graffiti."

HANK GAW

FRIDAY'S

Time Out!

Whether it was taking time out of a busy schedule or filling up empty hours, students managed a few hours a week for leisure time activities. Recreation at GSC ranged from chess to weightlifting, matching the different interests and skills found among students. Pool, ping pong, tennis, or just rapping with friends: there was much besides books on a student's mind.

Competition Keen In Intramural Sports

Georgia Southern's intramural program coordinates athletic competition for men and women in both the Greek and Independent leagues. The intramurals involve many students as participants and an even larger number of spectators with a keen spirit of competition evident in almost every event of the GSC intramural program. At the end of each season, Greeks and Independents match the tops of their leagues in tournament competition. Sports which are included in the GSC intramurals are flag football, basketball, volleyball, and softball.
